County School Board

Issues Certificates

The San Mateo County Board of Education met at the office of the County Superintendent of Schools last Saturday. Certificates were issued on credentials to several applicants. The certificates of Mary Stewart, Annie C. Mullen and Jennie Jones were renewed for six years. Natalie Hansen and Margaret Silveria were recommended to the State Board of Education as applicants for life certificates.

The board then took up the matter of county examinations and after a lengthy discussion decided to get the sentiment of the eighth grade teachers as to their desires in the matter. The following plans will be submitted and the replies of the teachers will be taken up at a board meeting on March 28:

1st. That the present system of examinations be continued.

2d. That the present system be continued and that daily work count 50 per cent toward graduation.

3d. That all examinations be abolished and diplomas be granted on the recommendation of the teacher and principal.

4th. That supervising principals may have the right to recommend pupils for graduation and pupils in supervised schools who are not recommended be required to take the examination with the pupils of the schools which have no supervising principals.

5th. That all schools in the county may recommend pupils for diplomas and all pupils not so recommended shall take the regular examination.

6th. That teachers submit their own examinations to the County Board four times a year.

7th. That teachers prepare final examination questions which shall be submitted to the Board of Education or additions that the teachers give the corrected or approved questions to the pupils and then mark and grade the papers, the grades and papers to be submitted to the board for its approval.

Upon the desire of the teachers of the county will depend the continuance of change of the present system of graduation from our county grammar schools.

REDWOOD CITY RUMBLINGS

Miss Elma Early, the popular clerk of San Mateo, was in town yesterday calling on friends.

C. H. Woodhams has had the front of his furniture store improved with a coat of paint.

Mrs. T. H. Glaze of Philadelphia, is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. F. Curry, whom she has not seen for twenty-seven years.

Mrs. L. Reid of Berkeley, mother of Rev. Rathbone, former pastor of the Congregational church, is in Redwood City on a three weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Christ.

The certificate of registration of Mrs. W. E. Crocker of Hillsborough has arrived at the clerk's office. Mrs. Crocker registers as a plain farmer. Mrs. Crocker will no doubt have a bumper crop this season.

The John Willison caravan, nearly a quarter of a mile long, composed of about 200 head of horses and fifty wagons, passed through town Friday from Hollister on the way to Farallone City. Mr. Willison has the contract to grade the coast road. He will begin work on the road early next week.

John F. Ford has purchased a Ford automobile and will go into the taxi business here. Because of his wide circle of acquaintances Mr. Ford will probably have a good business.

Last Friday County Clerk Nash certified to the correctness of the nomination papers of the following aspirants for office at Hillsborough: John A. Hoey, clerk; Charles T. Crocker, treasurer; Henry T. Scott, W. A. Brewer and Norris K. Davis, trustees. The certificates were neatly bound and carefully tied with pink ribbon. This was the work of the popular clerk, John A. Hoey.

District Attorney Swart presented

We're All the Same

A correspondent in the "Chronicle" says: "It was unfortunate that the first-class Japanese passengers on the Tenyo Maru were treated rather unceremoniously on their arrival here a few days ago. Instead of being permitted to come ashore upon the mooring of the vessel, as first-class passengers always had been, they were transferred to Angel Island, and there subjected to physical examination, just as if they were common immigrants of the laboring class. Even the women, who were respectable and well-bred, were handled, to put it mildly, in an unconventional manner." The very idea of treating first-class passengers and "well-bred" persons in the same manner as common laborers. The immigration officials in San Francisco apparently do not recognize the distinctions of wealth and caste. The "Chronicle" man, to show his approval of the protest, heads it: "A Called-for Protest."—Labor Clarion.

St. Bruno Church Entertainment

Saturday evening, March 14, the parishioners of St. Bruno's church, San Bruno, the Rev. W. J. Cantwell, pastor, will give a high class entertainment in honor of St. Patrick at Green's Hall. A most attractive program will be presented, including some of the best amateur and professional talent in San Francisco. There will be Irish songs, dances, music, recitations, etc.

Special music for the social to follow the program has been secured, and a most enjoyable evening is assured everybody attending. Frank S. Drady of Lomita Park will act as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Delegations from along the Peninsula have promised to be in attendance.

Every holder of an admission ticket will be entitled to a chance of winning a pot of real shamrock recently received from the Emerald Isle.

Highway Contract Let.

The State Highway Commission has awarded a contract to Bates, Borland and Ayer of San Francisco to complete the highway from Daly City to South San Francisco for the sum of $59,825.

All slick men are not polished.

San Joaquin Single Tax

We have the Single Tax in operation right here in California, and have had it since 1909. Our Constitution requires "all property" to be taxed. Irrigation districts are maintained, and the interest and sinking fund of their bonds paid, from the proceeds of an "assessment," which was formerly levied on "real property and the improvements thereon." Distinguishing this "assessment" from a "tax" the Legislature in March, 1909, amended the law as follows:

"Improvements on any lands or town lots within such district shall be exempt from taxation for any of the purposes mentioned in this act."

"The term improvements as used in this section includes trees, vines, alfalfa and all growing crops and all buildings and structures of whatsoever class or description erected or being erected upon said lands or city or town lots."

"Provided, that the provisions of this section relating to the exemption of improvements on any lands or town lots situated within the district now organized unless said provision shall be approved by a vote of a majority of the resident holders of title to land situated within the district and subject to taxation therein at a special election" (General laws of California, Act 1726, Section 35).

A number of the old districts have already adopted the new system of exempting improvements. When the required election was held in the Modesto district, one of the arguments used was that the taxing of improvements was holding back the town. The change was strongly advocated by the farmers and was adopted.

The people living in the irrigation districts that are exempting improvements from taxation are more than pleased with the new system. Some of them are actually using circulars advertising the fact that the "Single Tax" is in operation in the district. The Oakland real estate men have used for one of these circulars an editorial published by the "Oakdale Leader," April 20, 1911, which in part says:

"The Oakland Irrigation District has abandoned the primitive plan of taxing both lands and improvements and has assessed the land alone for the cost of irrigation. This means that you do not have to pay taxes on your house, barn, and growing crops for irrigation revenues. The man who does not improve his land bears the irrigation burden equally with the man who does. The assessments are equal, excluding the physical conditions of the land. As an example, the system operating under the old plan taxes both the improvements and the land. A man owning 20 acres of land is assessed on a valuation of $2,000; on his crops, houses, etc., $1,000. At this rate he would pay taxes on a valuation of $3,000."

"If this man was in the Oakdale district he would pay taxes on a valuation of $2,000. Many of the settlers in the older districts lived in barns because the taxes on improvements prohibited them living in comfortable houses with modern conveniences."

"Considering the modern plan of taxation, and the fact that part of the ditches of the Oakland Irrigation district will be concreted, this irrigation district offers the best inducements to the homeseekers and cannot be surpassed by any other district in the world. It offers a premium to energy and ability."

Is there any other farming district in the United States outside of this fertile circular inviting homeseekers to come and settle with them on their farms?

The farmers of the great San Joaquin Valley, here in California, know by actual experience the advantages of the Single Tax, and believe it to be the best inducement that they can offer to farmers in other places to come and settle among them.

Mission For State Highway

It was practically decided Saturday that the State Highway leading down the peninsula should enter the city on the Mission road, thence into Valencia and Market street to the ferries.

Details of his route were discussed between Highway Commissioner C. D. Blaney, City Engineer, O'Shaughnessy and the finance committee of the Board of Supervisors.

The State Highway Commission is having a stretch of road built through Daly City to the county line on the southern boundary of the city.

PACIFIC COAST SIDE

What Our Neighbors Along the Pacific's Shore Have Been Doing, Are Doing and Will Continue To Do

C. D. Smith, agent of the railroad at Half Moon Bay, records the rainfall for the season as 29.85 inches. The heavy storm last week showed a precipitation of 3.25 inches, 85 being the record since that time.

Work will commence on the Bay Shore boulevard, under the county bond issue, soon. The proposed road is 17,500 feet long and the county engineer estimates the cost at $65,000.

Sheriff J. H. Mansfield was in Pescadero Saturday looking after business relative to his office. He says that the country is looking fine and prospects are good for a big crop this year.

Supervisor Joseph M. Francis says that he intends to replace the old wooden bridge, near Miss Annie G. Smith's residence, with a modern concrete bridge.

Supervisor MacBain and family were Wednesday visitors. Supervisor Francis accompanied his confere to Granada to look further into the proposed change in the boulevard route. The trip was not fruitful of satisfactory results.

The Shore Line Investment Company of Salada Beach contemplates spending over $500,000 in beach improvements, such as building bathhouse, with plunge, hotel, pavilion and other buildings that go with an up-to-date beach resort. When this is completed the Coast Side of San Mateo County will have a resort equal to any on the Pacific Coast.

Steam Shovel—300 Tons(?)

It's all business at this end of the boulevard over Montara mountain and a few days later will see the completion of the camp equipment. Two stables have been completed, two corrals finished and a blacksmithshop will soon be ready for use. Workmen are engaged in improvising a railroad track to the camp so that the steam shovel, which weighs nearly three hundred tons, can be brought to the scene. Several concrete culverts will have to be built before this is done.

When operations commence the shovel will be mounted on a railtrack which will be continued as the work progresses. Following in the wake of the shovel will be the cookhouse and office on wheels. Thus it would seem to one will be able to go over the mountain sooner in a rail car than in an automobile.

There is not a minute of this fine weather that Contractor Willison, who brooks no delay when it is possible to avoid one, is not taking advantage of, and we may expect soon to hear things "just hummin'" on the mountain side.—Comet.

Stanley Smith Given Probation

Stanley Smith, who entered the De Sabla home at Hillsborough on February 15 and stole a diamond-set cuff buttons valued at $140 from Leon De Sabla, pleaded guilty on Wednesday and the following day the court admitted the prisoner to probation for a period of one year, during which time Smith will have to report the first of every month to the district attorney, telling of his whereabouts and his occupation. At the end of the year the information filed against him will be dismissed. Smith stated to Judge Buck that he was born in England 20 years ago and came to this country when 12 years old. His parents reside in Portland. Young Smith promised to make good if given his liberty. He appeared penitent and was in tears when making his statement to the court. In response to Judge Buck as to whether or not he wanted Smith sent to San Quentin, Leon de Sabla, who was in court, replied that he did not want to send the young man to San Quentin, but thought that some slight punishment should be inflicted in order that the young man might mend his ways and become a useful citizen. Judge Buck in passing judgment severely lectured Smith, calling his attention to the ways of evil doers and the result. Smith, who is a handsome fellow, told the court that the reason he committed the crime was that he lost his head.

Burden of Parcel Post

There seems to be no doubt that, with the increased weight permissible for parcels, the parcel post has increased the burdens of rural mail carriers, with the result that some of them face actual loss on their contracts. The contracts were entered into under old conditions; the parcel post has virtually changed the conditions of the contracts in many, and perhaps in most cases.

While the People want the best service at a minimum of cost, they do not wish to get that service at a loss to those who give the service. There should be some provision by which carriers of the People's mails will not be compelled to render service at financial loss, and that provision should be made immediately. We demand that the individual shall not be a parasite upon the People, and every individual has the right to demand that the People shall not be a parasite upon him.

The fact that the parcel post is at present a burden upon some individuals is not an argument for abolishing the parcel post. It shows merely that the machinery behind the parcel post is not so efficient as it should be. The establishment more than enough to pay the cost of the service, but the increase of land values is absorbed by speculators. The Constitution of the United States should be amended so that the People may pay the expenses of their public services out of the land values created by those public services. Meanwhile, the rural mail carriers should be insured against loss.

Fine Artichokes are Grown on Ocean Shore.

So rapidly is the industry of raising artichokes for winter market increasing in the region along the coast between Santa Cruz and Half Moon Bay that the growers in that section, in order to facilitate the handling of their product, have recently formed an association and built a packing and canning house on Islais creek on the line of the Ocean Shore railroad.

The Ocean Shore brought 306 cars of artichokes to San Francisco during the last season and it is expected that approximately 500 cars of the vegetables will be taken out this year.

A fine variety of artichoke is raised on the western slopes of the mountains. The growers expect to ship from the local warehouse to all points of the United States.

The Ocean Shore railroad, which now has pending before the Railroad Commission an application for the issuance of $200,000 in bonds to expend in electrifying the road as far as Tunitas, expects that this change of power will increase the popularity of the road to such an extent as to bring about the building at an early date, of the connecting line between Tunitas and Scott, thus making a through line to Santa Cruz.

Forest Notes

Minnesota has a forested area of 28 million acres, the largest of any state east of the Rocky Mountains.

There are approximately four million acres of timber land in New Hampshire of which about half is in farmers' woodlots.

Forest fires in the United States have caused an average annual loss of 70 human lives and the destruction of 25 million dollars worth of timber.

Juniper from the Indian reservations of New Mexico and Arizona may prove an excellent source of material for lead pencils. Manufacturers are searching the world for pencil woods.

Canada has established a forest products laboratory in connection with McGill University at Montreal, on the lines of the United States institution of the same sort at the University of Wisconsin.

Tree planting on national forests has to be confined to comparatively short intervals in spring and fall. In spring it starts when the snow melts and stops with the drying out of the ground; in the fall it comes between the fall rains and first snowfall.

Why Don't You?

A farmer who was carrying an express package from a city mail order house, was accosted by a local merchant: "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps to pay the taxes and build up this locality." With characteristic frankness, the farmer asked: "Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know you had the goods I have here, nor do I ever see your name in the paper inviting one to come to our store."

To travel the entire length of the Atlantic cable a message takes approximately three seconds.

Under England's cat and mouse act the mouse seems always to get away.

Friends in Congress

At a recent conference held between President Wilson and some of those who have been directly engaged in trust busting in the past, the President voiced his approval of a section which is described as follows:

"To define Trade Relations, one of the chief purposes of which is to prevent cut-throat competition and which will also outlaw any so-called exclusive contracts." In a communication we have just received from one of our representatives at Washington on this subject, he says:

"This is not the President's last word on Anti-Trust legislation, as he will still favor changes, should business interests demonstrate mistakes or unfair conditions. The message itself is a sort of a skeleton which the President has given us and we will have the privilege of inserting sections of that law covering the points we consider most desirable."

"You can depend upon myself and a number of my colleagues fighting to the last ditch will legalize Price Maintenance."

The Interstate Trade Commission, which the President so strongly recommends, will have the power to regulate prices and is directly charged with the responsibilities of doing away with malicious price-cutting.

Summing up the situation at the present time, we have every reason to feel that the question of Price Maintenance will have a full and fair debate in both houses of Congress, and that the views of Louis D. Brandeis, Samuel Untermyer and other trust busters of national reputation who favor legalized price maintenance, will be given great consideration before the anti-trust bill is finally molded into what Congress would consider a comprehensive law.—The Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Grove L. Johnson's Letter

The suppressed letter of Grove L. Johnson, father of the Governor, to the Santa Barbara conference of Republicans, has escaped from the oblivion to which it was consigned a few weeks ago and is now in circulation.

Without naming Governor Johnson the former leader of the old machine in the assembly delivers several inferential side-swipes at his son. He wrote:

"I rejoice exceedingly at the prospect of having a State meeting of Republicans once again in California. 'Too long have we been quiescent and allowed tricky politicians to steal the name of our party and use it for their own selfish ends."

"The record made by the present State administration, elected under the false claim that they were Republicans, is bad for themselves and for our State."

"They have raised our taxes, greatly enlarged the number of political places, put upon our statutes impractical and revolutionary laws, and finally have boldly announced that they were organized to, and intend to destroy the Republican party. They will fail."

"Let us stand firmly for the good old Republican party and we will surely defeat the ambition of the anarchists and socialists who have deserted."

FOUL LANGUAGE

By Dr. S. Margolis.

He schemes in dark to spread despair,

At men he breaths with poisonous air,

Hate he heats with torrid blaze,

And pierces kindness with his gaze.

He mocks the Just, the Truth he bars,

Finds stains at Sun, the Moon, the Stars.

And East, and West, and North, and South

You find his black and cruel mouth.

He hates the day, but loves the night,

The brave he slanders and slights the right.

He kneads his soul in burning fire,

To spoil, to raze is his desire.

To break the heights, to flatten the tower,

To dry the Rose, to crush the flower!

He does it all with ease and song,

Destruction is his serpent-tongue.

He comes to men and claims to save;

Don't trust! He means to dig a grave!

He tries to play "sweet love" to-day,

Tomorrow, you find, you're given away.

He hides his nails, he curves his back,

Deceit is but his only knack.

He cuts, he stings the whole day long,

Just watch! It is the foul tongue.

The will of a nurse shows an expenditure of $300 for a ticket to heaven.

And some persons are spending millions.

One thing the bald-headed man can never understand is why the world should respect gray hairs.

GIVE THEM A DAY TO PLAY.

Plenty of room for dives and dens

(Glitter and glare and sin!)

Plenty of room for prison pens

(Gather the criminals in.)

Plenty of room for jails and courts

(Willing enough to pay)

But never a day for the lads to race,

No, never a day to play!

Plenty of room for shops and stores

(Mammon must have the best!)

Plenty of room for the running sores

That rot in the city's breast!

Plenty of room for the lure that leads

The hearts of our young astray,

But never a cent on a play day spent;

No, never a chance to play!

Plenty of room for schools and halls,

Plenty of room for art;

Plenty of room for teas and balls,

Platform, stage and mart.

Proud is the city—she finds a place

For many a fad today,

But she's more than blind is she fail to find

A day for the kids to play.

Give them a chance for innocent sport,

Give them a chance for fun—

Better a playground plot than a court

And jail when the harm is done!

Give them a chance—if you stint them now,

Tomorrow you'll have to pay

A larger bill for a darker ill.

So give them a day to play.

—Denis A. McCarthy, in "Journal of Education."

"I PROTEST"

To sit in silence when we should protest
Make cowards out of men. The human race
Has climbed on protest. Had no voice been raised
Against injustice, ignorance and lust,
The inquisition yet would serve the law,
And guillotines decide our least disputes.
The few who dare must speak and speak again
To right the wrongs of many. Speech, thank God,
No vested power in this great day and land
Can gag or throttle. Press and voice may cry
Loud disapproval of existing ills;
May criticize oppression and condemn
The lawlessness of wealth-protecting laws
That let the children and childbearers toil
To purchase ease for idle millionaires.
Therefore, I do protest against the boast
Of independence in this mighty land.
Call no chain strong which holds one rusted link.
Call no land free that holds one fettered slave.
Until the manacled slim wrists of babes
Are loosed to toss in childish sport and glee;
Until the mother bears no burden, save
The precious one beneath her heart, until
God's soil is rescued from the clutch of greed,
And given back to labor, let no man
Call this the land of freedom.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

THE SONG OF TOMORROW

Sing of To-morrow, though To-day be dark,
Through all its argosies have gone astray,
And, tossed by tides on bleak unfriendly shores,
Drift the wrecked galleons of Yesterday.
Yet sing, for lo! beneath the morning star,
For through the mists shine out the city gates.
There lies thy port: sing loud the song of hope.
"Beyond To-day, To-morrow always waits."
Sing for the ships that beat against the gale,
Sing for the souls that front the storm alone,
Sing for thyself, lest thou forget that land
Of Heart's-Desire where all thy hopes have flown.
Glad with the songs thy lips could never sing,
Rich with the treasures of thy lost estates,
Crowned with the triumphs thou hast striven to win,
"Beyond To-day, To-morrow always waits."

A REAL UNION MAN

He said he was a union man, and he thought he was at that—
But we noticed that upon his head he wore a Stetson hat!
He boasted for the label with a most pugnacious holler—
But his necktie didn't have it, and neither did his collar!
He said he thought a "scab" was made of the very meanest dirt.
But, despite his indignation, he had on a sweatshop shirt.
He swore that "business interests" made the man "the goat,"
But there wasn't any Garment Workers' label in his coat!
His speeches in the union hall were patriotic rousers—
But he never asked the salesman to show him union trousers.
For breakfast he ate Grape Nuts and he drank non-union booze.
And he wore non-union clothing and bought non-union shoes;
And when with words of righteous wrath he got up to stir 'em,
From his nether pocket hung a tag of "Duke's" or Durham.
Or when he prattled "unionism," which was his favorite hobby,
As like as not he puffed upon a trust-made "Little Bobby."
Oh, sure he was a union man—if you could hear him tell—
But his brand of unionism must make them smile in—Battle Creek.

HUMANITY IS LOVE

Humanity is one: no weakest brother
Can fail or falter, sin or suffer woe,
But that the suffering reacheth every other,
And all the world with him doth fainter grow.
Humanity is one: who thinks to conquer
By crushing down a weaker in the way,
Knows not that in his own unreasoning rancor
He beateth down the steps that lead to day.
Humanity is one: there is no heaven
If one unholy fingers far apart;
It worketh in their bliss as evil leaven
That taints at last the universal heart.
Humanity is one: thou that o'ercomest,
O thou be strong for those who are but weak;
So shall a thousand triumph where thou winnest
And many find what few know how to seek.

Why should the ground be left to nourish
Rank weeds and poison
Where flowers might flourish
With loveliness and fragrance sweet
And hope and cheer for all they greet?
Yes, why not deck the wasted earth
With rose and lily and plants of worth?
Why should the ground be left to nourish
Sharp thorns and briars
Where trees might flourish
With sweetest blossoms and fruit of gold
Whose benefits are manifold?
Yes, why not have this wasted earth
Bear apple, peach and fruit of worth?
Then why should hearts be left to nourish
Thorns and thistles
Where flowers might flourish,
Where graces like lily and roses sweet
Make one for heaven and earth so meet?
My heart, my mind, may I till thee,
That thou mayest lovely and fruitful be.

"If you are a vertebrate,
Walk straight,
Talk straight,
Write straight,
And fight straight!
Never whine about your fate,
Anywhere and everywhere,
Just be on the square;
Help him on while you advance,
Give the other man a chance;
"If you are a vertebrate,
Just live straight."

"Paintings and frescoes for County Jail Chapel."
That's very well. Perhaps some of the prisoners will appreciate the artistry in their behalf. The ceiling has been done to represent the sky and California scenes decorate the panels. There is no danger that jail life will be made too attractive? The number in the County Jail at present is the largest of record. We cannot help thinking of the bare walls and floors in the poor little places where the disgraced families of some of them hide. Will the State aid to mothers with dependent children reach them? Do the jail prisoners earn any money to be used for the support of their families—San Francisco Star.

Prohibition has made no nation great; it has made no people eminent; it has made no continent conspicuous; but where it has reigned for decades and now reigns in the State religion we find a savage sultan hurled from his beastly, brutal, bloody throne and in his place a constitution monarch in a seraglio, his palace little less than a national bagnion and his people a race of semi-slaves, libinous fatalists, lustful paupers, unspeakable fanatics and concupiscent imbeciles.

The evolution of mankind from time immemorial has been a tedious process. Whether we came from monkeys or not, we are all sure of one thing, and that is, that it has been a strenuous struggle at times to keep from being made monkeys of. Efforts to improve our conditions have been characterized as treason and steps taken for advancement has been accompanied by the discordant and discouraging notes of the knocker.

Nothing helps more than your demand for the Union Label on the products you buy. It helps you, it helps the worker, who makes the goods you purchase, and it helps the dealer into believing that Union Labeled goods are in demand.

There is no factor so potent to command respectful consideration of labor's rights than a well-organized union, fully prepared to protect and defend the interests of the workers.

According to the postal experts the parcel post made $36,000,000 during the last twelve months. This was a calamity to the robber express companies.

The threat of government ownership has made the trusts come down off their high horse. The people must control the trusts, not the trusts the people.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

THE FAITHFUL ARE WATCHFUL.

Luke 12:35-48—March 8.

"Blessed are those servants, whom the Lord when He cometh shall find watching."—V. 37.

TODAY'S lesson opens with a parable. If, in a great house, the master were about to bring home his bride, the servants would on that particular night be especially active, watchful, on the alert to hear his knock and open instantly. So Jesus' followers should be on the alert for His Second Coming.

The thought is that followers of Jesus should take their ideals of alertness from the extreme experience of earthly service. Jesus intimated that they might look for Him sooner than He would come, saying that if He shall come in the second or the third watch or whenever, blessed are those servants found ready to receive Him.

Our Lord's Parousia is described in today's lesson—His earliest manifestations of His Second Advent. The world will neither see Him nor know of His presence; and His Church will know of His presence only by His "knock"—the fulfillment of prophecy. It will then be for the watchful ones to recognize this fulfillment, and promptly to acknowledge the Master's presence.

For such as receive Him He will make a feast. Out of the Divine Word He will bring things new and old, for refreshment and comfort. The Bible will become to them a new Book. Many Bible students believe that we are living in this very time; and that each faithful follower of Jesus will be granted the privilege to participate in this feast, which many tell us they are now enjoying.

The Great Teacher then intimates that Satan is master of the present order of earthly things; and that at His Second Coming Jesus will bind this strong man, overturn present institutions and establish the long-promised Reign of Righteousness. This thorough transition will cause the great Time of Trouble mentioned throughout the Bible as closing this Gospel Age.—Daniel 12:1; Mark 13:8; Matthew 24:21.

Jesus speaks of His Second Coming as thief-like. The thought is that He will be present for a time, unobserved by the world, known only to the Bride class, whom He will remove—changing them from earthly nature to Heavenly. Verse 40 instructs all the Lord's faithful followers to be ready for His presence, to render up their accounts and experience their change.

"To Give Them Their Portion."

St. Peter was perplexed. Was this parable for the Apostles or for all? The Lord did not answer him directly, but merely assured him that at the appropriate time the Lord would appoint a steward over His Household, to give them food in due season. This is not very different from the Lord's usual method of dealing with His family.

For instance, St. Peter apparently was a leader amongst the Apostles, in opening the Pentecostal door, and later in opening the door to the Gentiles—preaching to Cornelius, the first Gentile convert. Later on, the Lord seems to have chosen St. Paul to be His particular messenger to the Gentiles (Acts 9:15). Similarly Enoch, Abraham, Moses, the Prophets, and others during this Gospel Age, seem to have been especially used of the Lord to draw His people's attention to His Word. The Apostles, of course, had a special inspiration which does not appertain to others of this Age since.

The servant at the end of the Age, if faithful, would be especially blessed, and given general charge respecting the spiritual food for the Lord's family—"meat in due season." But if he should prove unfaithful, fall to recognize the Master's presence and manifest an unkind spirit toward the Household, he would go into utter darkness with the world, in utter ignorance of the times and seasons, etc., of his Lord.

The Lord then explained a general principle of His dealings; namely, that any servant, knowing his Master's will and not doing in harmony therewith, would receive stripes, punishments, tribulations, proportionate to his knowledge and opportunity. But any servant who ignorantly did things worthy of stripes would receive proportionately fewer stripes. "To whom much is given, of him much is required."

Our Golden Text.

The heart of this lesson is found in Verse 37. Those servants who in the earliest stages of their Lord's Second Coming, the time of His Parousia, His presence, shall be found faithfully watching, will be informed respecting the time, as the Apostle points out—1 Thessalonians 5:1-8.

The secrecy respecting the time and the manner of Jesus' Second Coming will be a strong test. All overcharged with the cares of this life—business, pleasure, etc.—will be slow to hear the "knock," and too much engrossed to give proper heed. "Watch ye therefore!"

PRESIDENT WILSON ON GOOD ROADS.

"I tell you very frankly that my interest in good roads is not merely an interest in the pleasure of riding in automobiles; it is not merely an interest in the very much more important matter of affording the farmers of this country and the residents in villages the means of ready access to such neighboring markets as they need for economic benefit, but it is also the interest in weaving as complicated and elaborate a net of neighborhood and state and national opinions together as it is possible to weave."

"I believe that the development of great systems of roads is, psychologically speaking as well as physically speaking, a task of statesmanship. I believe that it is the proper study of the statesman to bind communities together and open their intercourse so that it will flow with absolute freedom and facility."

"You cannot rationally increase the prosperity of this country without increasing the road facilities of the country."

MACADAM ROADS BECOME OBSOLETE.

Use of Concrete, at Least as Base, Advocated by Experts.

"Waterbound macadam roads, which for practically a century have been adequate for the traffic, have now, under the new conditions, become obsolete, and their further construction means a serious waste of public funds," says former President Lewis R. Spence of the American Automobile association.

"Macadam may answer for side roads and cross roads where there is little travel to wear the surface into dust and few fast moving vehicles to throw the dust into the air to be blown away. But for main roads a method of construction must be put in operation which will produce durable roads."

"Wherever it can be used concrete makes a most excellent road, or a road base for some other kind of surface. The state of California has adopted concrete construction for practically its entire system of state highways. Wayne county, Mich., has been building concrete roads for five years."

"Before the Wayne county authorities had learned by experience how to build concrete roads with expansion joints to prevent the concrete from cracking in cold weather and buckling in the hot sun, several miles of roads were built which broke into frequent cracks. To repair these cracked sections of road they poured hot bituminous material into the cracks and covered them with sand. This has worn to the level of the concrete, and the whole forms a smooth road to travel over, and one which looks as if it would stand for a generation at least."

"In some sections of the country the concrete is being used as a base, and two or three inches of broken stone, mixed with bituminous materials, put on for a surface. If properly built this kind of road should be very durable and should justify the additional expense."

"The concrete will furnish the strength required to hold up the loads which are constantly growing heavier, while the bituminized surface will prevent the creation of dust, making the road pleasant to travel over."

"The only proper way to figure on the cost of a road is to consider both the original cost and the expense of maintenance for a period of ten or fifteen years. Under present conditions of travel a macadam road would have to be resurfaced every two or three years and would be in bad condition two-thirds of the time."

GOOD ROADS IN IRELAND.

Improvements Made In Order to Attract Automobile Tourists.

Ireland is awakening to the necessity of putting her roads in order for American and other automobilists whom she wishes to attract as tourists. Irish roads until recently were notoriously bad, and in many parts of the country they still deserve that reputation, says the Brooklyn Eagle. The chief reason for this condition of affairs is financial. The roads are maintained by local bodies which have never very much money to spend and very often are almost entirely economical.

Yet there is a large sum of money actually allotted for this purpose by the government, most of which has not been spent. Since its establishment in 1910 the road board has been granted $1,200,000 to spend in Ireland, but of this sum only $450,000 has actually been distributed. The reason for this strange state of affairs lies in the system of divided control over main roads. As a result the road board finds that it is hampered in its work by having to deal with a large number of small local bodies instead of with the county councils alone, as in England.

A movement has now been set on foot by the automobile association and the motor union to effect an improvement in this direction. Their suggestion is that the main roads should be taken away from the control of the smaller bodies and put under the county councils. The consent of parliament would, of course, be necessary to the change, but there seems to be no reason why it should not be easily obtained.

THE DALY CITY ELECTION

On the 13th of next month the citizens of Daly City will be called upon to decide the future destiny of our municipality. It is even a crisis, when we must decide upon a radical change or sink down still lower in the disgrace that has caused our naturally promising city to be ridiculed from one end of the state to the other.

For the purpose of effecting the purification that is desired by all good citizens, the organization of the Citizen's League of Daly City was formed, composed of the best and most representative citizens from every portion of Daly City, who in good fait and perfect fairness, nominated a ticket of clean, progressive competent and intelligent citizens, none of whom sought the office but were willing to sacrifice their time for their city's good.

For trustees, no better men can be found in Daly City than T. F. O'Rourke, Thomas P. Moran and Edward R. Poor; and the same can be said of Frank B. Woodhouse for clerk and Robert E. Fine for treasurer.

The soreheads, R. R. Castle and T. Sheehan, who participated in the deliberations of the Citizen's League of Daly City, each morning to make the nominations of their successful rivals for nominations, Unanimous, and seemed perfectly satisfied until days afterwards, when they were influenced by the enemies of good government, to become traitors. Suppose they had received the nominations they sought—is there anyone so silly as to imagine they would be screeching "frame-up," "slate," etc., and endeavoring to cast a reflection upon the candidates nominated by saying it was done in "the back-room of a saloon." Then they are equally contaminated, for on the following Tuesday evening they were nominated in the same room by the Civic Betterment League.

In going down the list of nominees as published elsewhere in this issue, Al J. Green was also in attendance at the splendid meeting when the Citizen's League of Daly City nominated its ticket and expressed himself as not being a candidate. Had he done so, no doubt he would have been named to succeed himself as he has made a good trustee in every sense of the word.

In that list of nominees for trustees are found the names of Meussdorffer, Weiss and Jess, who represent the element favoring disincorporation. While not favoring these gentlemen, they are certainly worthy of more consideration than the three alleged Socialists, whose utter incompetence in the handling of the municipal affairs are the sole cause of the sentiment in favor of disincorporation.

No good citizen wishes disincorporation under decent conditions, and to that end it seems the duty of every loyal citizen to support the Citizen's League Ticket.

OUR COUNTY HIGHWAY BUILDING

The coast side of San Mateo county is overjoyed because the work of building highways under the $1,250,000 bond issue for good roads is now under actual construction. Good roads have long been the dream of the residents of the Coast Side. A wonderful country that is practically a part of San Francisco, which has scenery and resources that only a hand full of Californians know—will soon be viewed by countless autoists who are eagerly awaiting the completion of the Coast Side roads. This together with the proposed electric line of the Ocean Shore should greatly aid the county in finally coming into its own.

Seven miles of grading between Colma and Montara is now being done under contract. The huge extent of the task can be realized when it is taken into consideration that where the grade of the present road runs up to 24 per cent with an average of 18 per cent, the new road establishes an entirely new grade, which does not exceed 6 per cent at any one point.

Another important feature of the work under the big bond issue is the acquisition of rights of way. In most cases the wise owners of property knowing the benefits to be derived by the immediate construction of good roads have cheerfully presented the county with the necessary strips of land that go to make up the highway.

Fortunately, the citizens are loyally supporting the good roads movement, many going out of their way to assist without financial reward where hard cash could be had for the asking from the coffers of the county. However the efficient work of the officers will mean eventually that the rights of way will be obtained at the smallest cost.

Condemnation proceedings for all rights of ways necessary are being instituted by District Attorney Franklin Swart with the approval of the Board of Supervisors and the Advisory Roads Commission. The preliminary steps were taken at the last meeting of the county fathers in Redwood City when Swart presented petitions for the appointment of viewers for the roads in which acquisition of the rights of way are presenting difficulties.

DALY CITY TRUSTEES

Business Transacted by the Board at Its Last Meeting

on them, when they had not had time hardly to receive the abstract that was ordered sent them at the last meeting, much less time to investigate. But it was no go, the original motion prevailed, Freyer and Green voting yes, to prevent the claim that they were obstructionists, which would undoubtedly have been made.

Attorney Morris submitted election data and advised that everybody be in readiness to arrange for the coming city election, at the meeting next Monday night, such as the appointing of Judges, clerks, etc., and also consider the submitting to the voters for a salary clause for the trustees.

Plans and specifications for the Hillcrest Drive sidewalks and curbing were extensively debated upon and finally approved by a unanimous vote.

Green suggested the appointment of W. M. Golden as street superintendent for the Hillcrest Drive work, urging that it would go to show that there was no frame up. Freyer objected and said that everybody should have a show for the position. Green's

At the meeting Monday evening all the trustees were present.

W. N. Flaherty petitioned the board to appoint an inspector on the construction of the city hall, claiming that the concrete foundation was not being put in in accordance to plans and specifications. This caused quite a squabble between Contractor Doering and Flaherty until Mr. Freyer asked why the supervising architect was not doing his duty, that he was paid for superintending the work and should be required to do it, and made a motion to that effect which prevailed.

The Chicago bond buyers, Spitzer, Rorick & Co.'s bid on the $90,000 water bonds at par was read, and it seemed a prearranged plan that the same should be accepted. Mr. Freyer moved to amend the motion and was seconded by Green, that action be stayed until other bids that are expected should be heard from, including the Denver bid where a $90. bonus was offered. Freyer asked the clerk and attorney if it were not a fact that they were in communication with other bond buyers and they acknowledged that they were. Mr. Green said that he favored Freyer's amendment for the reason that he considered that in all fairness to other bond buyers, it was wrong to take snap judgment motion prevailed appointing W. M. Golden.

Consulting Engineer Roberts bobbed up and said he felt sorry to state that no bids had been received for construction of the municipal water system, giving as a reason the continued agitation, the disincorporation movement and the failure to sell the bonds, newspaper criticisms, etc. He cited Sunnydale, (where there is a competent board of trustees), who recently sold $25,000 worth of bonds for a premium of $1950. He then fell in with Mr. Freyer's suggestion of several weeks ago, "that the work be let by the day, so as to give Daly City people the chance to do their own work." This idea was opposed by Roberts when Freyer suggested it at the meeting on February 9, but now he capitulates to the better sense idea, saying that the city can buy the material on as good and perhaps better terms than a contractor could. Mr. Freyer expressed himself a very glad that it shall be done in the way now proposed. Finally a motion was made by Freyer that the Engineer proceeded and prepared a comprehensive plan to proceed with the construction of the municipal water system by days work. The motion carried.

Thomas Spellman was present and signed the well-boring contract, and was ordered to proceed at once.

It was reported that no answers had been received from either the Roslyn Granite Co. about curbing or Pacific Gas and Electric Co. about defective poles and wires.

Some time ago Landini reported that certain steps in front of a new Crocker Tract house was in the street and the owner was ordered to remove same. It developed that no attention has as yet been paid to the order, so (c)ross said "that the marshal should get an axe and chop down the offending (?) steps" He was reminded by Attorney Morris that it was unlawful to take the law in his own hands.

The requested permit to put in concrete curbing on Mission between Los Angeles and Knowles avenues was refused.

Freyer spoke for the State Highway Commission, asking permission to dump macadam from Mission to Ford and Bismarck streets, which was granted.

That Monday Night Meeting

That very much advertised meeting, the Castle-Sheehan-Smith sore-head affair at Knowles Hall Monday evening, accomplished absolutely nothing except to demonstrate the complete strength of Sheehan and Castle, the self-confessed traitors to the cleanest movement for Daly City's betterment that has ever been inaugurated, and to gratify the pastor of the lumber yard, in the silly belief that he has made a good stroke that will have a tendency to increase his chances for continuing to suck the municipal teat.

George W. Savage, a loyal friend of the Citizens' League of Daly City, was repeatedly urged to accept the temporary chairmanship of the meeting until the permanent chairman, A. J. Green who was attending a meeting of the city trustees, should arrive.

He was advised as to the program and when he called the meeting to order stated that there would first be a straw ballot taken for trustees, clerk and treasurer and that was for the purpose of suggesting the candidates, after which a regular ballot would be taken on the nine having received the highest vote for trustees, the three having received the highest vote for clerk and the three having received the highest vote for treasurer. This was the same procedure that was followed out by the Citizens' League of Daly City.

Well the blank ballots were all distributed and harmony seemed to prevail when J. S. O'Brien came in and soon after asked Temporary Chairman Savage the object of the meeting. Savage stated that he was merely acting temporarily until the permanent chairman should arrive, so was not able to give the information. O'Brien then said "I make a motion that we have a chairman who is competent to tell the object of the meeting," and after the same was seconded, told how he, O'Brien, "had called a meeting to order in that very hall six years ago." Savage and others replied and it seemed for a time that there would be real naughty things done. Finally another motion sustained the chair and the balloting proceeded.

At the conclusion the nine highest for trustees were: Poor 35, Moran 51, O'Rourke 31, Castle 70, Biebel 19, Landini 22, Green 49, Smith 12, Gegax 11, O'Brien 9. Treasurer: Hobson 16, Fine 29, Sheehan 70. Clerk: Woodhouse 29, Savage 14, Smith 74.

Then came the time for the official ballot, but the slate—Sheehan, Castle, and Smith—had received a majority, so O'Brien started another wrangle that resulted in the defeat of a motion to proceed with the second ballot, when Savage stated that he then and there washed his hands of any responsibility in the meeting.

There was then cheers and yells of "frame-up," and "you're afraid to take the second ballot," etc., until all was in complete turmoil, while everybody was trying to get out on the street to a pure atmosphere. One lady was in such haste to escape that she left her purse containing several dollars in the hall, but it was fortunately discovered by friend who restored it to the owner next day.

C. J. Zulk, who died last Thursday, February 26, 1914, aged 55 years, 10 months and 4 days, was a native of Germany and one of Colma's oldest residents. He was proprietor of the large C. J. Zulk monumental works near Mt. Olivet Cemetery, corner F street and the Boulevard. He leaves a family and a very large circle of friends.

The honest way to discontinue a subscription to a newspaper is to first pay the small amount you owe. Thus you will retain the respect of the editor and guard your own peace of mind. To do otherwise, such as ordering the postmaster to notify the publisher that the paper is "refused," is cowardly, sneaking as a snake thief, and worse than highway robbery.

Mrs. Lewis Podesta entertainer her Stirling Silver Club on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 3, at her home on Santa Ana avenue. All the ladies were surprised at the improvement of Daly City. Those present were: Mrs. W. H. Foary of Berkeley, Mrs. L. T. Anderson of Alameda, Mrs. L. T. Luck, Mrs. M. G. Norton, Mrs. F. Bergman, Mrs. J. Hansen, Miss M. G. Steveson, Mrs. H. E. Hague, Mrs. R. Reimon, Mrs. M. Fulton, Mrs. H. L. Eldridge, Mrs. F. Farrant, Mrs. E. Leitgus, Mrs. G. C. MacDonald of San Francisco and Mrs. Dr. Marion of Daly City.

There is a rumor afloat that there is a quiet movement on foot to defeat Jim Callan for re-election to the office of school trustee and replace him with a resident of Daly City. Aside from the fact that Jim Callan has made one of the finest trustees that Jefferson School District has ever had, being pains-taking and fair to every school under his supervision, his portion of the district—Colma—is deserving of a representative on the School Board and it is not right for Daly City to hog it all.

Daly City Municipal Candidates

On Wednesday evening, March 4, 1914, the following candidates had legally filed their verification papers with County Clerk Joseph H. Nash, as contestants for the municipal offices of Daly City:

FOR TRUSTEES—three to elect.
Timothy Francis O'Rourke.
Thomas Paul Moran.
Edward Richard Poor.
Athens John Green.
Reuben Raymond Castle.
Oscar Muessdorffer.
Raymond A. Jess.
William Weiss.
Silvio Landini.
Charles Leo Biebel.
William R. Gegax.

FOR CITY CLERK.
Frank B. Woodhouse.
George Napoleon Smith.

FOR CITY TREASURER.
Robert Edward Fine.
Joseph F. Pankeewicz.
Mrs. Emma Hobson.
Timothy Sheehan.

The names in boldface letters are the candidates nominated by the Citizens' League of Daly City—all first-class citizens and thorough business men—just the men we need to improve the conditions in Daly City.

Presbyterian Church Ladies' Guild

Last Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Guild held one of its social meetings at the church, Corner Green avenue and Hanover street, at which five visitors, Mrs. J. S. Rockwell, Mrs. Edward Freyer, Mrs. E. J. Gozzett, Mrs. Wm. M. Talbott and Mrs. J. L. Brown, were present.

It being the date for election of officers, the courtesy was extended to Mrs. E. J. Gozzett to preside and Mrs. Edward Freyer to act as secretary, and then the Guild proceeded to elect the following officers for the ensuing term:

President—Mrs. Frank Aldwood.
Vice President—Mrs. B. L. Larsen.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. P. H. Moller.

The affair was exceedingly pleasant, including an elegant luncheon.

On March 31 there will be a congregational meeting for the purpose of transacting business affairs, at the close of which there will be a very pleasant social reception to those in attendance, with a supper consisting of the most delicious viands, all prepared by the ladies themselves.

Laben Langley's Will Filed.

The will of the late Laben Langley was filed in the Superior Court of Alameda county for probate last week. The total value of the estate is placed at $55,000. By the terms of the will, Tarr and Leroy Tarr, grandchildren of the deceased are each bequeathed the sum of $5 and Emma Nickerson, Mrs. Abe Taylor and William Langley and S. Langley, children of the deceased, are each left the sum of $500. The rest and residue of the estate is bequeathed to the widow. Before Mr. Langley passed away he deeded the ranch near Woodside to his son, William Langley and that piece of property does not appear in the inventory.

EXPLORATIONS IN A DOOR-YARD

The age of discovery in California is not yet past, nor are the explorers all dead. Every man who manages to acquire the use of a few feet of ground around his house, on some hillside that has never before been cultivated, is the Columbus of that particular bit of soil. When he goes out with his spading fork or his trowel and digs in the adobe he is likely as not starting a disturbance in nature which that bit of soil never knew before in all its vast longevity. When he plants flowers and they come up, as they often do under the assiduous care of a persistent man, they are probably the first civilized flowers that have grown on that bit of soil for ever. They are pioneers among bowers, bravely contesting strange environment, and becoming ancestors of all the flowers to be planted there thereafter so long as civilized man dwells on that spot and likes flowers.

Thus almost everyone, outside the crowded parts of the cities, can subdue a little land to his use, take a small part in man's harmonious conquest of the earth, and be a Pizarro and a Burbank all in one.

SAD BUT HUMAN

In this era of tango dancing, moving pictures and "tay dansants," it is indeed sad to see lawfully wedded men and wives seeking to loosen their bonds, not only for showing too great a fondness for the "bunny hug" or hesitation" but for such causes as snoring or rolling on the floor. The other day a man urged a learned judge to free him from his spouse because she persisted in getting up in the middle of the night and rolling on the floor, much to the disturbance of his rest and that of his neighbor on the floor below.

Now a son of Adam has been adjudged a brute because he slapped his wife to wake her up to stop her snoring, so that he might be able to sleep. The judge's ruling was proper and just. No man would slap a woman, especially to awaken her out of deep, snore-producing slumber. This wretch should have quietly tip-toed into the "front room," or the kitchen, swept by the fresh breezes from the Pacific and reposed in rigid silence, on the sofa—or the sink.

WHY JOE CANNON HOWLS

Your Uncle Joseph G. Cannon is the best single-handed calamity howler in captivity, and his rage at the Wilson Administration, because it has not produced a panic, as advertised by Republican reactionaries, is a fine piece of political vaudeville. Joseph's real trouble is a threatened hemorrhage of the pocketbook on account of the income tax. Paying a tax will be a new and painful experience for him. Hitherto he has been a member of the numerous "tax collectors" who pose as "tax-payers," because they get the tax receipts, but shift their taxes to others.

Seeing that President Wilson has smashed the prosperity of a band of political harpies, Joseph denounces the President as a "smasher of prosperity." He is too old to learn that the bogus prosperity by which he and others of his kind have become millionaires is going out of fashion. Therefore he opens the faucet of his woe-tank, and makes the common calamity howler look like a happy robin singing a hymn of joy.—Star.

ROAD BUILDING A SCHOOL STUDY

Plans of an Oregon District
Supervisor.

PRIZE COMPETITION.

An Interesting Experiment Making
Road Building a Course of Study in Rural Schools Is to Be Made in Lane
County, Ore.

Road building as a course of study in rural schools is to be tried in a district of Lane county, Ore., and a woman is to direct the work. The idea was conceived by Miss Goldie Van Biber, the district school supervisor, says a recent report.

Actual road building is the laboratory work which will accompany this course. The children of each school will build and maintain a strip of country road near the school building. The school whose road stands and is found to be in the best condition when winter comes will be the winner of a contest for which two silver cups have been offered as prizes.

"I was afraid that the county court might not allow me to experiment on the roads, but it has even authorized the supervisors to furnish rock or gravel, handle powder and do the work that children could not do alone," said Miss Van Biber.

The county court saw in the scheme of Miss Van Biber a plan to establish the fundamentals of good road building in a new generation and at the same time interest the present generation in the principles of drainage and highway construction, which the children learn at school. It has entered into the plan with enthusiasm.

Miss Van Biber has jurisdiction over 100 square miles, extending into Lincoln, Lane and Douglas counties. All the year, by horseback, boat or on foot, she travels over the rough mountain highways and up along the small rivers. She introduced manual training in the Siuslaw schools, and exhibits of handicraft, sewing, carpentry and bead work from Florence took first prizes at the county fair, ahead of the Eugene and advanced Valley schools. She introduced the industrial work and put it under proper supervision. Road building is her next step.

Speaking of her plan, she said: "This is no scheme to work children on the roads. They will care for only 60 yards, and not necessarily that much. If the district road is difficult, the road building is not to be taught by the teachers, because the average teacher is not qualified to teach road building."

"We shall organize a good roads club in each school. We shall give the scholars credit for the hour or more a week that they spend on the roads. Those who undertake the road work, which will be purely optional, will be excused from studying the road chapter in the agricultural manual. The whole plan is to arouse interest in roads and give adequate instruction and the already overworked teachers will not be burdened with this additional work."

"Of course all districts will not be able to participate, because many schools are built on trails. They have no roads on which to work. Possibly these districts can compete for the prize by laying out and actually building a piece of road past their school."

ROADS AND LIVING COST.

Cost of Hauling Big Factor in Expense of Farm Products to Consumer.

Until very recently the vast majority of people failed to understand that the good road is not a mere country dweller's convenience or the means to motorists' pleasure, but that it is an actual economic necessity. That it costs the farmers of this country more for a ten mile haul of produce from farm to town than it does to ship that produce from New York to London is a fact. That it costs farmers abroad from one-half to one-tenth as much to haul a ton a mile on a road as it does the farmers of this country is another fact.

That practically every pound of flesh and bushel of wheat we consume must travel over a road at least once and sometimes twice before we eat it is a third fact. The three are the answer to one part of the question, "Why does it cost so much to live?" Some one has to pay for the expensive hauling. Some one has to pay for the depreciation in the value of the horses and vehicles caused by poor roads. Some one has to pay for the extra time it takes to haul cotton to market when two mules are required to haul two bales ten miles in one day, when on a good road the same two mules could haul twenty-four bales in the same time with the same effort.—Suburban Life Magazine.

New Roads For Wisconsin.
More than $4,000,000 worth of new roads, about 1,400 miles, will be built in Wisconsin in 1914, announces the state highway commission. This is 500 miles more than were built in 1913, in which more than $3,000,000 was spent.

The state will distribute among the counties about $1,240,000. Requests for more than $1,550,000 of state aid have been made, but the state will fall short by $350,000. This amount will be made up by the counties. More than 1,400 separate pieces of road were completed in 1913.

Gems In Verse

THE INVITATION.

COME on, brother! Take it easy for a day.
Let's be truants, blithe and breezy, out for play.
Here's a spot for pleasant dreaming
Where the slender birches sway.
Here's a pool where trout are gleaming
If your thoughts for fishing stray.
Rest a bit from toil and scheming and we'll play.

HERE the air is soft and hazy. It's a crime
Not to linger and be lazy for a time.
So while summer skies are warming
And the heart beats all in rime
Let us steal a day from farming,
From our daily grit and grime.
Let us stop where life is charming for a time.

THEN when we have rested, neighbor,
Loafed and loitered for a day,
We'll go back again to labor
All the better for our play.
—Berton Braley.

OLD SHIPS.

BY wharves that droop to voiceless
tides
The faded ships remain.
On creaking spars the north wind
rides
And weeps the winter rain.

Gray, battered veterans of the sea,
They swing with listless sway,
Aroused no more by storm wind's glee
Or upward splashing spray.

But in the night when all the din
Of life around is still
Their voices rise in accents thin,
High with the old glad thrill.

They dream of billowing, belled sail,
Of whitecaps' gay salute,
Of faroff comrades' cheery hail,
Of seagull's raucous hoot.

Of voyage far, when wind and wave
Called gently from the sea;
Of mates who in a gloomy grave
Shall sleep eternally.

Beside the wharves they strain and swing,
Gray dreamers of the tide;
No more to hear the breakers sing
Or brave the sea wastes wide.

LOVE AT SEA.

WE are in love's land to-day.
Where shall we go?
Love, shall we start or stay?

Or sail or row?
There's many a wind and way
And never a May but May.
We are in love's hand today.
Where shall we go?

Our land wind is the breath
Of sorrows kissed to death
And joys that were.
Our ballast is a rose.
Our way lies where God knows
And love knows where.
We are in love's hand today.

Our seamen are fledged loves;
Our masts are bills of doves.
Our decks are gold
Our ropes are dead maid's hair;
Our stores are love shafts fair
And manifold.
We are in love's land today.

Where shall we land you, sweet?
On fields of strange men's feet
Or fields near home,
Or where the fire flowers blow,
Or where the flowers of snow
Or flowers of foam?
We are in love's hand today.

Land me, she says, where love
Shows but one shaft, one dove,
One heart, one hand.
A shore like that, my dear,
Lies where no man may steer,
No maiden land.
—Algernon Charles Swinburne.

THE SUMMER WOODS.

THIS Sabbath, and the quivering wood,
In wild confusion here and there,
Hath gone its way, while I, apart,
Have sought this perfect note of prayer.

NO rustle here of silken gowns;
The pines are dark and still and high.
The sunbeams gliding where they will
To link my dreaming to the sky.

FILTS now and then some timid bird,
The noon deep shadow on his breast,
Whose silent wonder asks why I
Invas his holy haunts of rest.

THESE are God's columned corridors;
I cross myself, repeat my creed—
Eternal power, eternal love,
O soul of mine, eternal need!

—Herbert Randall.

A WORD.

A WORD is dead
When it is said.
Some say.
I say it just
Begins to live
That day.

GRANDPA AND ME.

MY grandpa says that he was once
A little boy like me.
I suppose he was, and yet it does
Seem queer to think that he Could ever get my jacket on
Or shoes or like to play
With games and toys and race with Duke,
As I do every day.

He's come to visit us, you see.
Nurse says I must be good
And mind my manners, as a child
With such a grandpa should.
For grandpa's very straight and tall
And very dignified.
He knows most all there is to know
And other things beside.

So, though my grandpa knows so much,
I thought that maybe boys
Were things he hadn't studied—
They make such awful noise.
But when at dinner I asked for
Another piece of pie
I thought I saw a twinkle
In the corner of his eye.

So yesterday when they went out
And left us two alone
I was not quite so much surprised
To find how nice he'd grown.
You should have seen us romp and run!
My, now almost see
That praps he was long, long ago
A little boy like me!

—Round Table.

NEED.

AS earth needs night wherein to find
The peace
That brings from strife and toil a glad surcease,
So earth needs sorrow, that our hearts
may see
Beneath life's fret love's calm eternity.
—Arthur Wallace Peach.

LABOR

Out of chaos, out of murk
I arose and did my work;
While the ages changed and sped,
I was toiling for my bread.
Underneath my sturdy blows
Forests fell and cities rose.
And the hard, reluctant soil
Blossomed richly from my toil.
Palaces and temples grand
Wrought I with my cunning hand.
Rich indeed was my reward—
Stunted soul and body scarred
With the marks of scourge and rod,
I, the tiller of the sod,
From the cradle to the grave
Shambled through the world—a slave!
Crushed and trampled, beaten, cursed,
Serving best, but served the worst,
Starved and cheated, gouged and spoiled
Still I builded, still I toiled,
Undernourished, underpaid,
In the world myself had made.
Up from slavery I rise,
Dreams and wonder in my eyes.
After brutal ages past
Coming to my own at last.
I was slave—but I am free!
I was blind—but I can see!
I, the builder, I, the maker,
I, the calm tradition-breaker,
Slave and serf and clod no longer,
Knowing my strength—and who is stronger?
I am done with ancient frauds,
Ancient lies and ancient gods—
All that sham is overthrown,
I shall take and keep my own.
Unimpassioned, unafraid,
Master of the world I've made!

—Berton Braley.

UNION—STRENGTH—VICTORY.

Union spells S-T-R-E-N-G-T-H. Strength means Might.
And Might brings Victory.

Would that this doctrine remained ever in the minds of the toilers. Alas, it is too often lost sight of by the workers themselves. Then when the eyesight of Labor is dimmed to the opportunities that are the right of Might, the mantle of discontent o'ershadows the vision and the curtain of Ruin slowly but surely descends.

Labor does not realize its power. Its very ignorance proves the "millstone" about its neck that is constantly dragging it down. Not alone is ignorance to blame for the infinitesimal part that Labor plays in the affairs of the World at the present time. Petty jealousy contributes its share toward this end.

To the doors of petty jealousy in the ranks of organized labor can be traced many defeats. This spirit of discontent is not alone noticeable within the fold, but has occasioned considerable comment from outside sources.

No better illustration of how Labor is viewed from the standpoint of the Industrial World, could be shown than at a recent banquet tendered Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. In his position as head of the New Haven road, Mr. Mellen had tens of thousands of workingmen and women under his supervision. His knowledge of the "Strength" of Labor was gained from years of interesting study of the conditions of his many thousands of employees.

His estimate of the position of Labor in the world and of the value of organization, was stated in no stinted terms. "Without labor what is there of value in this world" he asked. "Ninety per cent. of all you appreciate and desire is the result of Labor."

"Where you alone have that which others must have, you can force them to pay your price. You men have that which the World must have to move and progress. You are entitled to the price. Be firm but prudent. But above all, BE STEADFAST TO ONE ANOTHER."

Such a great country is this, we can not begin to keep track of the wonderful things that are happening. "A larger affair, a more remarkable feat," say the engineers, than the Panama Canal is the aqueduct—the largest tunnel in the world—which will bring more than 500,000,000 gallons of water daily from the crest of the Catskill Mountains into New York City, a distance of one hundred and twenty miles to the boundary line of the city. Week ago Monday the last heading was blown out by a dynamite charge set off by Mayor Mitchel. The cost of the work completed will fall little short of $180,000,000. Seven years' time has been consumed in the doing of it and the system of distribution is yet to be built. And no "nature lovers" objected, though the Catskills are storied ground known of tourists all over the eastern country. Seven villages, thirty-two cemeteries and a railroad or two had to be moved, and there were no shouts of desecration. After the Post (N. Y.) had written a long, glowing description of the Catskill aqueduct, it said, in another place: "Senator Works did right to open up the whole Hetch-Hetchy matter again for investigation."

When you find a worm in the fruit you are eating—don't blame the worm, nor the dealer who sold you the fruit, but blame the man, woman, or boy who killed the bird that would have eaten the worm. Men hunters, women and girl bird wearers, and boy shooters and collectors of eggs—all these are to blame for the worms in the fruit and vegetables.

A GREAT FEUD

It Was Between Workers In Wax

By F. A. MITCHEL

More than half a century ago there was a craze for modeling in wax.

Among these waxworkers one became so much more skillful than the others that she at last found herself an object of jealousy to the other workers and their friends. This lady was the young Countess Hildegarde, a person of great modesty, who was not pained in finding herself in such a position. When it was reported to her that she was an object of envy, that she was exciting antagonism among those at court, she was quite at a loss what to do in the matter.

Her nearest rival was the daughter of Prince Lichtenstein, who ruled over a territory some ten miles square. This princess, Sofia, being heiress to a large fortune, was a person of influence and much sought after by the marriageable young aristocrats attached to the court.

The king heard of the quarrels of the adherents of the two ladies and, naturally taking the part of a princess of the blood, treated Hildegarde with marked coolness. The poor girl was at her wits' end. To be brought into a contest with one so far above her in rank was sure to result disastrously to the weaker vessel. She was not permitted to leave the field, and if she remained in it she would surely come to grief.

To make matters worse, a young officer of the garde du corps, Captain von Helmsmuller, must needs fall in love with the countess and advocated her claims to superiority in waxworking so loudly that he called forth the antagonism of Prince Herbert, the king's youngest son, who was devoted to the Princess Sofia. What had before been a gale now became a hurricane. The king, who deprecated quarrels among his courtiers, strove to quiet the contending partisans, but failed. It seemed to Hildegarde that she must retire from court.

But when she mentioned this plan to her partisans they one and all intimated that they would consider such action an acknowledgment of defeat, a desertion of her supporters. The countess, unwilling to leave them in the lurch, after long deliberation finally hit upon an expedient which would show the folly of the war that was being waged and, she hoped, would end it.

She induced one of her friends to offer a suggestion that the two rivals each make a wax peach; that the models be exhibited for a time, at the end of which a vote be taken as to which was the better work, the artist receiving the higher vote to be considered in possession of the field, the one receiving the lower vote to refrain from further waxwork.

The suggestion, being talked about, reached the ears of the king, who, seeing in it a possible way to end the war, seized upon it eagerly, issued a command embodying it and adding to it an important feature. He decreed that the artist whose work was voted to excel the other was to be appointed waxworker to his majesty for life.

There was now nothing for it but that the contestants should give their whole attention to the work in hand. The princess took two weeks to do hers, while Hildegarde took but one. When the models were ready for exhibition each contestant put her peach in a glass receptacle provided for it and sent it by her own maid to be placed on a stand in the room of the palace provided for the exhibition. A silken cord stretched across the room, ten feet from the works to be voted on, kept those inspecting from going too near them.

Alas for hopes of peace! The very first day of the exhibition Prince Herbert and Captain von Helmsmuller met in the room where the peaches had been deposited and got into a quarrel over which peach was the better production.

"No one ever saw a peach," said the prince, referring to the countess' work, "of a hue like that—a yellowish brown. And look at the specks on it—they are unnatural."

"I grant, your royal highness," retorted the captain, "that the other peach is a representation of better fruit, but as to naturalness, why, any one can see easily that it is made of wax."

"Do you mean to tell me," retorted the prince, "that shrunken thing is a more perfect work of art than the luscious fruit beside it? You are a fool!"

"Were I of the same rank as your royal highness," the captain retorted angrily, "I would teach you that you cannot call an officer of the garde du corps a fool."

"I waive my rank."

"Very well; I will send one of my comrades to your royal highness immediately."

There were but two other persons in the room at the time, and the prince gave them the choice between keeping the matter secret and incurring his royal displeasure. Both persons promised not to tell, but the affair leaked out and was soon the talk of the court. The prince and the captain were regarded respectively as the champion of the princess and the countess.

Never before was such a hubbub raised in a court of Germany. The king was furious. He at once issued an order confining both his son and the captain in a fortress till he could be assured that they would not fight. He visited the room where the peaches were on exhibition and, seeing that the one that had been made by the princess was a far more beautiful fruit than that made by the countess, felt sure it would be pronounced so by an overwhelming vote and the controversy would be ended permanently. So he gave orders that the next day at noon the election should take place and that Prince Herbert and Captain von Helmsmuller should be present.

From 9 till 12 the next morning the room where the peaches were deposited was thronged with members of the court. The princess stood near her work and the countess near hers. Just beyond the cord before the princess stood Prince Herbert, and in the same relative position on the other side stood Captain von Helmsmuller, each champion glaring at the other. At 12 o'clock the voting commenced. There was not the slightest doubt as to which would win, for the admiration for the Princess Sofia's work was unbounded, while Hildegarde's was pronounced a miserable, shriveled little thing of no merit whatever.

At 12 o'clock the king ordered the two champions to act as tellers, and, taking their hats in their hands, they collected the votes. The chamberlain counted them and when he had finished announced the result:

"Her royal highness' work has received eighty-seven votes and the Countess Hildegarde's one."

The prince turned and greeted the captain with an insulting laugh. The captain threw his glove at the prince and struck him squarely in the face. The king, seeing his son thus attacked, indignant at such an affront to one of royal blood, gave his royal sanction to the meeting and was about to leave the room when the Countess Hildegarde advanced and, kneeling before him, said:

"It has been decided, your majesty, that I retire from the field of wax-making. It only remains to assure these hot-headed champions that they have no cause for quarrel. Will your majesty deign to inspect the fruit that I have produced?"

Receiving the royal assent, she rose and, going to her work, raised the glass cover and took out the peach. Then, advancing to the king, she broke it in two halves, juice dropping on the floor, and, putting one half in her mouth, she gave the other to his majesty.

"Why, it's not wax at all!" he cried.

"It's a real peach."

Then, putting the fruit in his mouth, he smacked his lips. "It's good, too; better than it looks," he exclaimed.

For a few moments the assembly stood gazing at one another shamefacedly. Then those nearest the door began to slip out, followed by the others, till none were left but the king, the prince, the princess and the countess.

"My son," said the king, "give the captain your hand."

The prince hesitatingly did as he was bidden, and the captain, delighted that his beloved Hildegarde had shown a higher skill than in working wax, grasped the prince's hand warmly. Then the king said to Hildegarde:

"I am convinced that by your wisdom and adroitness you have ended a feud which if it had continued would have spread over my whole kingdom. What can I do for you to show my appreciation of the service you have rendered?"

"A boon, your majesty!" cried Von Helmsmuller. "Let me receive the reward."

He looked at the countess, who, blushing and laughing at the same time, by a nod assented to his request.

"I ask your majesty," said the captain, "that I be rewarded with the lady's hand."

Hildegarde bowed her head and said nothing.

"Be it so," said the king.

The Princess Sofia swept haughtily out of the room. Within a few days the court circular announced her betrothal with Prince Herbert.

And that was the last of the feud of the workers in wax.

Pacific Union Conference

Probably the largest convention that the Seventh-day Adventists have ever held in this section of California, will convene in the Oakland church of that denomination, on March 11, and will continue until the 22nd. It will be the biennial meeting of the Pacific Union Conference, which includes the four conferences in California, and those in Utah, Nevada, and Arizona. Elder E. E. Andross, President, will have charge of the meetings.

Practically all of the clergymen, and Bible teachers in the six conferences will attend. Not only will the various churches of the state be represented in the business sessions, but believers from all parts of the state will attend for the instruction and spiritual uplift they will get. The workers in the California Conference who will attend, include President E. W. Farnsworth, B. E. Beddoe, A. Brorsen, S. T. Hare, L. K. Dickson, R. S. Fries, Frank A. Coffin, and Claude Conard of Oakland, where the headquarters of the Conference is located, C. E. Ford, of San Francisco, Andrew Nelson, D. E. Robinson, and C. L. Taylor of Sanitarium, G. W. Rine, and H. A. Washburn of St. Helena, J. A. Stevens of Eureka, James Taphouse of Los Gatos, L. L. Hutchinson, of Ferndale and others.

Several of the leading clergymen of the denomination will attend the session, and take a prominent part in it. These will include Elders I. H. Evans, President of the North American Division Conference; W. A. Spicer, Secretary of the eGeneral Conference; G. B. Thompson, Secretary of the North American Division Conference; W. W. Eastman, head of the publishing work in North America; and Meade MacGuire, Field Secretary of the Young People's Missionary Volunteer Department. All of these are from the world's headquarters of the denomination in Washington, D. C., with the exception of Elder MacGuire, who has his headquarters in Loveland, Colo.

This will be the eighth of twelve similar meetings scheduled in different parts of the United States and Canada, and which will continue until next May. Thus far one meeting has followed close onto the previous session. Practically every preacher in the denomination in North America will have attended one or other of these meetings before the series closes.

A Ministerial Institute will be the program for the first week, with Elders Evans, Spicer, and Thompson taking leading parts. These three will be the instructors. Two of the subjects will be as follows: "The Ministry," I. H. Evans; "The Bible and Prayer," G. B. Thompson, Elder W. A. Spicer will lecture on "Foreign Missions." Elder MacGuire will also give some instruction concerning the development of the young people's department. It is stated that there are now over 25,000 young men and women in the schools, academies, and colleges operated by the denomination, and the necessity of winning every one of these for gospel workers will be brought to the attention of the delegates. Elder Eastman will tell of the progress that is being made in North America toward distributing Christian literature.

During the last week of the session, business affairs will be transacted. Reports will be given by President Andross, the secretary, the treasurer, secretaries of the Religious Liberty, Sabbath school, and Young People's Departments, presidents of the various state conferences and other officials. Officers will be elected for the next two years, credentials and licenses issued, and it is probable that several changes will be made in the forces in different parts of the Pacific Union territory. It is also possible that some recruits will be secured for foreign mission fields.

The deceased left a brother and sister in Italy, and they are his direct heirs. Therefore the public administrator is entitled to administer upon the property. Canepa died at San Francisco on February 1, 1914. The estate consists of an interest in a vegetable garden at Colma valued at $1500. P. Molinari applied for letters last week.

Judge Buck has appointed H. W. Schaberg inheritance tax appraiser of the estate of Frederick Richards, deceased.

Joseph O. Raspadore has applied for letters of administration upon the estate of Domenico Zaro, who died on Feb. 16, 1914. The estate consists of cash in bank amounting to $3000 and real estate at Colma, exceeding in value the sum of $10,000. The heirs at law are the following children: Joseph O. Raspadore, Mary Buswell, E. C. Zaro, E. L. Zaro, residing at Colma and Anna M. DeLancey, living at Berkeley and John A. Zaro, residing at San Bruno.

Mary E. O'Connor has applied for letters of administration upon the estate of James F. O'Connor, who died at sea on January 14, 1914. The estate consists of an undivided one-half interest in lot 6, Burlingame Park.

John H. Claffey has applied for letters of administration upon the estate of Mrs. Ann Claffey, who died at Burlingame on February 19, 1914. The estate consists of property at Burlingame and San Leandro valued at $5000, cash in bank, furniture and other personal property, the value of which is in excess of $10,000.

ASSESSOR'S INSTRUCTIONS

TO OWNERS OF REAL ESTATE AND PERSONAL PROPERTY

The law requires each and every person who owns any class of property to annually, during the months of March, April or May, file a statement with the Assessor or his deputy in the county where his property is located. You should give a statement of all property owned by you on the first Monday in March at 12 o'clock m.

No charge can be made by the Assessor after he turns over his books to the Board of Supervisors on the first Monday in July. The Board then sits as a Board of Equalization during the month of July. Remember, if you fail to give in your assessment you fail to comply with the law and may cause yourself, the Assessor and Tax Collector much trouble, and very likely cause yourself expense.

It is much more satisfactory to the Assessor, as well as to yourself, to have your assessment correct when you go to pay your taxes.

C. D. HAYWARD,

Assessor San Mateo County.
